Join us for an informative and stimulating Maymester course focusing on the experiences of Black women in the United States. We will discuss Black women’s history and involvement in social movements from slavery to the present. Course materials will also explore issues such as Black women in politics, reproductive justice, images of Black women, and the #sayhername and #BlackLivesMatter movements. This course fulfills the Social and Behavioral Sciences (SS) general education requirement.